Power Distribution in Family

Kiani Mojdeh

Power distribution in family is one of the most problem making complicated issues of family filed. The study of power distribution and house work division are one of the important and regardful issues of sociology which act in family study and the relations between man and woman areas. If in a family the power sources of men are different from womens, what are the womans sources of power? This study was done by use of Grounded theory method and qualitative approach. This book is organized in five chapters.
