The Casino, situated in close proximity to the headquarters, was arranged for the use of the supplymen in the display of their wares. Booths were occupied by 105 firms exhibiting mainly new devices in the engineering field, the whole making a most attractive display, which was liberally patronized during the four days. The exhibit at the Casino was formally opened on Wednesday evening. Harry H. Atkinson, president of the New England Association of Commercial Engineers, presided and introduced the following speakers, who made short addresses: Hon. Chanhing H. Cox, lieutenant governor of Massachusetts Major James Myrick, treasurer of the supplymen Robert Johnson, chairman of the local committee Charles E. Hildreth, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Tremont E. Eggleston, Jr., chairman of the exhibition committee. The exhibition was open from 10 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. The opening exercises of the engineers were held in the banquet hall of the Bancroft Hotel on Thursday evening. The meeting was called to order by Chairman Robert Johnson, who introduced Herbert E. Stone, master of ceremonies. Alderman Joseph W. Leydon welcomed the convention to Worcester in place of Mayor Sullivan, who was called from the city. Warren H. Goodrich responded and spoke of the growth of the N. A. S. E. during the past year. Charles E. Hildreth, president of the Worcester Chamber of Commerce, told of the dignity of the engineering profession and expressed how pleased the citizens of the city were to have the delegates and visitors among them. He said that the engineer was undoubtedly the mainspring of civilization. Charles C. Gardiner, chairman of the Educational Committee, ..
