

The Power of a Dream

Cindi Jasa

How God brought two totally different people together to change a little piece of the world... Beatrice spent the first half of her life in Africa before moving to America Cindi was born and raised in the United States-the contrasts in their upbringings are vast and indescribable. Regardless, Beatrices and Cindis faith pointed them in the same direction they met through their Church and went on a trip together to Africa to give shoes to people in need. This story details their life-changing experience in Africa.
